36 BOTTLES OF BEER A DAY HIS MINIMUM

Muncie Barber, When Really Thirsty, Drinks Many More

Muncie, Ind.—When he isn't feeling very well and business is brisk in the shop Harvey Sheets, proprietor of a barber shop, says he drinks only thirty-six pint bottles of beer a day. At other times he may take more.

He testified to this in city court, where he was charged with operating a "blind tiger" in his shop. The police had confiscated considerable beer there and had seen many "empties." In response to a question as to how long three cases of beer—the amount taken by the police—would last him he replied: "Sometimes three days—that is, when I'm not drinking much."

"Are you sure you don't bathe in it?" asked Judge Gregory in acquitting Sheets. The officers could produce no evidence of sales having been made by the barber.

HEIR KILLED WORKING TO GET NEW CLOTHES

A Letter Notifying Him of Big Estate is Found in His Pocket

Kansas City, Mo.—Thomas E. Gilbreath, 57, while digging under a high embankment at Front and Holmes streets was buried alive beneath tons of clay which fell from above. The accident was not discovered until other workmen returned. The body was recovered and John Gilbreath, a brother, living at Marion, Ind., was notified.

In Gilbreath's trunk was found one letter that had been received on July 20. It was from John Gilbreath, brother, and carried with it the information that Gilbreath's relatives had been searching for him during the past five years. It told about his mother's death and the fact that a fortune had been left to him.

"Come and get your share of the estate," the letter said. "Your income tax of $48 has been paid."

According to friends of Gilbreath, the letter accounts for the fact that Gilbreath suddenly decided to go to work. They remembered that he had said he had made up his mind to buy some new clothes and take a trip. They believe that he was making an effort to earn enough money to clothe himself properly and go back to his old home and claim his fortune.

FIFTEEN WOMEN DIE AS AIRMAN FALLS TO GROUND

Paris.—A German pilot having just received a license, and wishing to astonish his native city, made an exhibition flight and landed with a crash in the crowd, killing 15 women.

THE WOMEN AND GREATER ONTARIO

larger community.

I want to speak more specifically of three things:

1. Women and Society.

Let me call your attention to the service women may render to the social life.

It has always received a contradiction in character that the woman that can speak sweetest words mortal tongue may utter, should also be capable of uttering words filled with the bitterest venom possible for mortal tongue to speak. It may not be true, but the charge is sometimes made that the devil's most efficient weapon is the gossip of a woman. I hope the charge is unfounded, but let me urge you, as I would the men, that this God given power of speech as God intended. Withdraw the poison. Let your words be messengers of blessing.

In your social life create a single standard of morality. Let the standard be the golden standard. Require no more nor no less of women than you do of men. If you welcome to your society, a moral leper, for God's sake let it be the sister.

Today the woman is ostracized, while the man is too readily welcomed. A golden standard for both men and women will do much to make in Ontario a moral purity required in honorable society.

2. Admission to our society should be by worth rather than wealth. Some may be so unfortunate as to be wealthy, but they should not add to their misfortune by excluding those noble souls who possess great riches of culture, character and beauty. If we could introduce into the flavorless "upper crust" some of the splendid leaven from among the poor nobility, society would be redeemed from much of its worthlessness. The real aristocracy is found among those who possess the wealth of soul. Make Ontario society so democratic that the pass word will be "she is worthy."

3. Women and Home Building. I would urge the women of greater Ontario to be home builders. Let the home be the place of your supreme influence. If you have time for club life, it can be made both pleasant and profitable, and the church demands much of your time, attention and strength, but no institution has a right to usurp the home.

The best society that I can think of, whose object is to purify social life is the society of home builders. 2. The curse of modern life, the divorce, can be overcome through this society. If some women would give as much time to a real live boy or girl, as they do to the poodle dog or malted cat, this old world would be infinitely better. The poor deluded woman who chartered a train and employed a physician to accompany her old worn-out dog across the continent to a dog hospital, and when dead, purchased a coffin and burial ground for him, is the type of woman who is supplanting the noble mothers and wives, distinguished for the homes they are building. The sight heaven smiles upon, is to see an offspring lean its head upon its mother's breast and lip the name, "mother."

III. Women and Christ.

Finally, I pray that the women of greater Ontario may infuse the Christ into their lives. All I have said before this, implies the Christ presence. Christ inspires beauty. He is the author of our beautiful world. "All things were made by Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made."

The social aristocracy by all society is to be measured by the Christ power, and the Christless home is a misnomer.

2. The temple whose stones ye are, is Christ's own workmanship. Give Him a place, therefore, in the greater Ontario. If woman is indebted to another for any blessing, it should be remembered that her debt to Christ is eternal. It is Christ who lifted woman to the throne she occupies, and subdued the passions and brutal instincts of man so that man worships at her feet.

I call upon women, therefore, to call upon Christ, and accept Him who is her greatest benefactor, into the complex life of the greater Ontario. The society bells of the "upper crust" is not the woman that the church nor the world can depend upon for the noble deeds of kindness. They are not like Dorcas whose handy work stood as a memorial after she had passed away.

When sick and in need, one of these society belles is the last one to turn a little finger to help. They are the last ones to hear the instruction of the apostle, "Help those women that labored with me in the gospel." Solomon pays a beautiful tribute to just the kind of a woman that I have tried to picture to you. "She looked well to the ways of her household, and catcheth not the bread of idleness. Her children arise up, and call her blessed; her husband also."

Henry Vandikes story of the woman who dreamed she died and went to heaven, is a beautiful one in this connection. She, though a nominal Christian, was spending her time with the social events of the world, and doing nothing for Christ and the church. She was awakened by the dream of heaven, when Peter was showing her the beauties of heaven, saw a beautiful mansion, with the crown beside the door filled with stars, and the robe with gems, and on asking, found that it was for her gardener who lived in the hut beside the barn. She was then shown a small hut beside the beautiful street, and on the door hung the crown and robe with neither star nor gem. She declared that both were the opposite of what they had on earth, and asking if not the hut be changed, received the reply that they could only build of the material sent up for the structure. She awoke to find that she was throwing life away and laying up no treasures in heaven.

May we all get the lesson, and realize that there is much to live for in this old world, and that we give our lives to Jesus Christ, and His service of helpfulness to others, and hear Him say, "As much as ye did it unto the least of these my brethren ye did it unto Me."

PERHAPS DANNY CUPID HAS GONE ON A STRIKE

Hayward, Cal.—Ministers here are bemoaning the small number of recent marriages. They have started an investigation to find out whether Hayward couples are hesitant about taking the matrimonial step or whether they go elsewhere. "Trade at home," is the slogan of the ministers.

HIKER'S BODY FOUND HANGING IN MARIN CO.

Well Dressed, About Fifty; There Is No Clue To His Identity.

San Rafael, Cal.—Two Italian woodchoppers found a body kneeling and hanging from a limb near Woodacre. The body was of a well-dressed man in "hiking attire." He was about 50 years of age. The laundry mark "9 X 40," is the only clue to his identity.

The man was about 5 feet 7 inches in height, 140 pounds, gray hair, eyes and mustache. He wore a gray coat and vest, khaki breeches and walking shoes. He was last seen walking from Fairfax.

The "hiker" placed two fence pickets against his roll of blankets. He tied a piece of clothesline to an overhead limb and knelt down to his death.

WIDOW RUNS PAPER AND REARS FAMILY

She Conducts Publication Successfully For The Past Twenty Years.

Adams, N. D.—Left twenty years ago widowed and with a number of children, Mrs. Ritchie D. Doherty assumed the responsibility of running the large family and continuing the publication of the paper at Michigan City, which her husband had edited.

She later removed the plant here. The children have grown up, some of them were given university educations, some are married, one daughter is postmistress here, and two sons are editors of newspapers.

Her plant has been shipped to the western part of the state, where a new paper will be established by her youngest son, as Mrs. Doherty has permanently abandoned the newspaper business.

SHE IS THE ONLY GIRL IN 66 YEARS

Lyerly, Ga.—Miss Frances Louise Stark of this place is the only girl born in the entire Stark family in 66 years, and the only grandchild on either Mr. or Mrs. Stark's side. She is the great-granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dover, Lyerly's oldest couple, who possess more kinspeople than any other two people in this section.
